

The Mastery Club

for real!

Welcome to the 7th issue of

The Mastery Club – for real!

I'm delighted to report that The Mastery Club has just gone into its third printing! I know that many of you have been enthusiastically recommending my book far and wide. Thank you so much.

I've been moved by the number of people who participated in our pre-sales offer this time. You'll find their businesses advertised at the back of the new issue. They are: Theo Papanikolaou of the Prosperity Academy, who runs programs for youth; Richard Yiap of Beyond Paradigms who presents various breakthrough learning programs; Diane Cartwright, who offers life and business coaching; Angel Foster, who runs a health food shop on Phillip Island; Shona Grace and Grahame Rees, who both promote The Secret Science of Growing Rich, Shona from her base in New Zealand and Grahame from his base in New South Wales; Rosemary Teed who presents various Life Success and coaching programs; Ludwina Dautovic of The Red Tent Woman who offers life coaching for women; and Barbara Pellegrino, who teaches 'Treasure Map Your Way to Success'. Watch out for more information about their products and services in this and future newsletters...

A couple of weeks ago I sent an email blast to let you know that The Mastery Club had been short-listed in the American IPPY Awards (Independent Publisher's Awards). It's confirmed! We are a bronze medallist. 😊 ➡

THE YOUNGEST MASTERY CLUB MEMBER!

I'd like you to meet the youngest Mastery Club member! Georgia is only 4 years old, but her mother, Kym, tells me that she loves the book and is very protective of it....

Kym: "I snuck into her room yesterday and she was pretending to read The Mastery Club to an imaginary class of daycare kids. It was so funny and cute. I wish there were pictures to keep her interest and enthusiasm up, but it was more amazing to see that she didn't care if there were pictures or not. She stayed with the role play for a good 15 minutes."

Kym's TIP for parents reading The Mastery Club to younger children:

"If you think they're not 'getting it', what I do is change some of the words into simpler language or rearrange sentences really fast so the story still flows. Then when there's a break in the chapter I re-cap what it was all about or ask Georgia if she understands or wants to ask me any questions. The biggest change I make is to add a million more "Natalie says" or "Nina said" or "Billy asked" so she doesn't get confused about who on earth is speaking. They don't have the concept of the Mother reading a book and talking in the second or third person... Does that make sense? I sound like a fruit loop sometimes but it makes sense to me."

No, you don't sound like a fruit loop, Kym! Thanks for the tip.

In the same email blast I mentioned that I was about to be guest speaker on a new Book Club Telecall. The call was a great success, with people phoning in from around Australia and overseas (New Zealand and Hawaii). There was even interest in establishing a Mastery Club via telecall... more on this later. If you'd like to listen, go to page 5 and click on the link.

The first Mastery Club workshops in schools have taken off - see story at right.

Workshops for members of the community are underway also. The next one is planned for the July school holidays in the Frankston area, Victoria. If you're interested, please contact info@themasteryclub.com.au for more details.

WORKSHOPS IN SCHOOLS

I travelled north a few weeks ago to run my first Mastery Club workshops in schools. Kuluin Primary School on the Sunshine Coast in Queensland invited me to speak to the entire Year 6 group for an hour about my journey with the book, and to run an interactive workshop with 23 selected students. It was a wonderful experience and I was delighted with the feedback. (See below for some comments.)

Thank you to Principal of Kuluin PS, Earle Taylor, for organising this adventure.

I went from Kuluin to Bli Bli State School, and presented a similar program. I was impressed with the students at both schools, their openness to new ideas and their respectfulness while listening to me and one another.

Thanks to Franca Cook, teacher-librarian at Bli Bli PS for taking it on - and for taking the photo above!

Some comments from Kuluin Students:

"It was a great day! I really enjoyed making treasure maps. I also enjoyed the stories that were told, I thought they were amazing." - Tayla

"I think I learned a lot about myself and other people and what words really mean. It was very interesting!" - Madison

"The whole experience was so imaginative!!!!" - Keegan

"It was great and also lots of fun and I think kids will really like it." - Maddie

"I had a wonderful day. I would love to do it again." - Mitchell

Some comments from Bli Bli students:

"I liked it a lot. I liked the bit where she told us about the people who believed in the stuff and it came true. I also enjoyed the slide show on the projector with the people talking about the book. I really enjoyed making the treasure map." - Tommy

"We really enjoyed the stories she told us and how we got to make the posters (treasure maps). Our favourite story was the one about the guy who wasn't that smart but he didn't give up on making a better future for himself. We really enjoyed making the posters because it helped us to believe in ourselves and be more confident." - Bree and Ella

Email #1:

Hello,

I'm Tatum and I absolutely adore your book!

I think it's the best, it teaches you good lessons too.

I've set a goal to do really well on sports day and I'll let you know how it goes.

I'm really excited

Tatum! :)

Email #2:

Hello,

It's Tatum again

I'm letting you know how my goal went.

My goal was to win my age championships at sports day

I won second in all of my events so that's pretty good for my first goal

See ya later

Tatum :)

Dearest Liliane,

I just wanted to give you some feedback for your newsletter. I have received so many things from my vision board which is made up from the principles of your book and of The Secret. I made the vision board 6 months ago. So far I have received Balinese furniture, door beads, money (finding on footpath), a holiday, dresses, a coat. These things turn up in the most obscure ways and they never cost me a cent.

The most recent thing I received is a pregnancy.....my very own.....one of the pictures on my vision board was of a newborn baby, now I am 9 weeks pregnant. The doctors confirm this is a miracle baby as I only had one fallopian tube after an ectopic pregnancy and my husband had a vasectomy reversed. I was on toxic drugs for two years to cure cryptococcal meningitis so did not have a body equipped to house a baby. So after 6 years of trying we had given up, we weren't sad about it, I have two fantastic step kids and we were thankful for the great lives we already had.

I feel that all the visualising I have been doing (in meditations also) as well as the gratitude I feel with my life, along with the affirmations and putting out to the universe exactly what I want has brought me this miracle baby and all these wonderful things.

I feel blessed to have been guided to Ms Liliane Grace who through her book has changed my life in ways I could not ever have begun to imagine. I am forever grateful. xx

Melinda

Meg (15) attended the first Mastery Club workshop I ran at Angel's Realm. When it was over she emailed me with this message:

"Just an email to tell you that i really enjoyed today. I was thinking about it before and i realized that i have actually done [visualisation] before. When i was about 10 or 11 i really wanted a mobile phone so i made a cardboard one and i made it a flip phone and it was pink and everything and i just pretended it was real and now i have a flip phone. And i wanted an i pod and i made a cardboard one and stuck a photo of an ipod on it and it looked real, so i just imagined that it was and now i have my own REAL i pod. So i just wanted to share those little stories with you..."

A Tip from the Telecall

During the telecall (see following page), I shared that for years I had read about the creative power of the mind and been fascinated by the amazing stories I read, but hadn't been very successful at 'seeing the invisible, hearing the silent or doing the impossible'. I was much more likely to think one creative thought and then, if nothing changed instantly, to just give up... I kept falling for how things looked and had decided that these principles worked for other people, but not me.

However stories about the creative power of the mind just kept nagging at me, and finally I decided to commit myself to applying them. I started with this set of affirmations:

'My words and thoughts determine my destiny. I am in charge of my words and thoughts. The faster I change my language to empowering phrases, the faster I transform my results.'

This felt really good to me and I enjoyed declaring it. Later, as I reflected on my most limiting beliefs, I realised I was being held back by the thought that 'people don't want what I have to offer'. Well, that had to go! I devised this affirmation:

'My contribution, my creative gifts, my loving service, are valued and wanted, and the universe delights in paying me richly for them.'

The rest, as they say, is history!

The Mastery Club: launched July 2006 (2000 copies), reprinted November 2006 (3000 copies) and May 2007 (4000 copies).

We introduced you to Georgia on page 1. Now Georgia's mother, Kym, shares her story about applying the principles of creative thought to the process of selling our house:

"Our house was finally under contract to be sold, then the people buying did a house and building inspection that resulted in needing a new roof (this was huge for them and a bit of a shock for us but it is an old home). So I had to snap out of the negativity real fast as they were thinking of pulling out and my grand plan so far has been working perfectly.

"So I promptly went outside to the For Sale sign and splattered the SOLD sign across it and left it to the universe. We then had two weeks to wait for the unconditional news of yay or nay.

"So the next day I went and bought new suitcases for us all and even emptied all drawers and wardrobes and packed for Europe, the next step in my grand plan.

"Yesterday was my birthday and today was the unconditional day. After more negotiating, it was confirmed SOLD yesterday. So Champagne was popped and the universe was thanked."

My friend, Lynn, has this story to share - as a warning! She had decided that for her birthday she wanted to be the centre of attention and for the day to be full of surprises! Well, it pays to be careful about what you 'put out', as she laughingly told me on the phone a week later.

On her birthday, Lynn's car broke down in a surprising and rather dramatic way - smoke billowing out of the bonnet - and she was very quickly the centre of attention when seven garage attendants rushed toward her car with fire hydrants. To top it all off, she had recently been daydreaming that she would like her next car to be yellow. Guess what colour was the replacement car they lent her while her car was being fixed?

Act on your dreams, and remember to send me YOUR story
